LEISURE/RURAL/NEW

This project intends to explore how to design a central square for a rural village, and adding leisure functions for the villagers. The proposal is focused on 3 main areas: social, physical and cultural activities. In this way, the old rectory and barn of Loukov are converted into a Pub and Guest House, a Yoga Center/ Comunal Center, and a Cinema.

In order to add this new functions into the square, it was necessary to add a corridor to connect the cinema with the Pub and Guest House, since they share the toilet area, the reception and therefore, the circulation. For this reason, the original staircase was rebuilt to make space for the new connection corridor.

For all new interventions, the project uses an architectural language based on serial planes, wood and density. This light intervention allows to easily differentiate the old from the new, at the same time that it is visible the old design and structure through the new skin.
