II. EVALUATION OF INDIVIDUAL CRITERIA

Assignment	more challenging
The brief Ole has chosen is at first glance uninteresting and mundane - senior housing with basic services in a small estate , actually in the middle of a motorway junction. It's nothing like what a Central European imagines when you say Norway. It's a realistic task, based on a real intention in place. Constraints imposed by the terrain and other , already existing buildings and a modest budget. The design can hardly find support in the context - industrial halls, simple farm buildings, roads. All the more reason to appreciate the courage with which Ole embarked on his difficult journey.

Fulfilling the assignment	Done
The task is completed

Activity and autonomy in the processing of work	B - very good
The work was done independently and the way the student worked was very responsible throughout. I especially appreciate the ability to look critically at one's own work and then change both the concept and detail.

Professional level	B - very good
The concept of the ensemble is in a good sense standard, simple and will not evoke emotions. The simplicity of the intention, which is based on a realistic idea of the operation of such a project.

Formal and linguistic level, scope of work	C - well
The formal level of documentation is at a good level. The scope of the thesis meets the requirements for a thesis project. The thesis was preceded by a very detailed research of the problem. The realistic programme is simply developed using the motifs of the vernacular architectural tradition and does not attempt to be provocative. The operation is perhaps a little undersized in some elements - for example, one shower for the sauna department and a very simple concept of communal dining. I appreciate the design of a large workshop for the residents of the complex, a very important element of life in the Norwegian tradition. Also the possibility of simple accommodation for visitors is inspiring for our practice of similar facilities. Some of the details of the operation for the handicapped would deserve correction, but the whole is a compact solution that will work.

Selection of sources, correctness of citations

A - excellent

Ole evaluated the depth of the preparation of the project when sometimes, in my eyes, the responsibility and the desire to fulfill deep reflections on the problem somewhat obscures the poetry and courage of Ole's previous works in our studio.

III. OVERALL EVALUATION AND CLASSIFICATION PROPOSAL

Ola Jin Nymoen has done a job that deserves consideration when deciding the real fate of the development of the site.

I rate the submitted thesis with a classification grade C - good.
